The Sci-fi City - Krakow

2nd Chapter

After wandering for a while, Jacob and Pola have arrived in Krakow, the most sci-fi city in all of Poland. The city is futuristic, full of high-tech buildings and gadgets. It is a stark contrast to the village they had come from, and the young monkey boy is mesmerized by the spectacle of the city and all its technology.

While searching for the device they need within the city of Krakow, the two of them are suddenly caught off-guard by a group of people that start a robbery against them. The people are part of the Armstrong Clan, the most powerful clan in Krakow. Without hesitation, Jacob and Pola engage the thieves in a battle, to prevent them from taking any of their possessions. Before the member of the Armstrong Clan falls unconscious, they manage to make a comment about the main goal of their clan. They remind the others about the Elon Meint's Tower, which seems to be a place of importance for the Armstrong Clan. The Tower may be a part of their overall plan, and so this is an important piece of information for Jacob and Pola to know.

As Jacob and Pola enter the building, they are surprised to find a receptionist guarding the elevator. The man is a high-skilled black man, and they seem to possess a great deal of combat experience. Upon seeing Jacob, the receptionist seems irked and annoyed, possibly due to his playful manner or something else. Perhaps they have dealt with similar individuals in the past?

The brawl breaks out between the receptionist and Jacob, the young monkey boy. The receptionist seems to be the more skilled combatant, and so Jacob is put on the defensive, losing on the battlefield. At a crucial moment, Pola, the girl hunter, comes to her companion's aid. She casts a mind spell on the receptionist, which takes him by surprise as he is not used to encountering any special abilities in combat!

Being struck by Pola's mind spell, the receptionist agrees to let them pass to the elevator, which Jacob and Pola swiftly enter. On the elevator ride, they find a different opponent awaiting them: Sundowner, who is currently holding Elon Meint hostage. The young monkey boy and the girl hunter look on, surprised to find a new foe in their way, and prepare themselves for another battle.

Sundowner holds a single dragon ball, and thinks he is at the point of victory. He is unaware, however, of Daniel, the robot, who suddenly arrives and shatters the window of the elevator, interrupting the battle. The robot's sudden appearance throws everyone off-guard, and he executes a "Bounds Check", causing chaos in the elevator.

Daniel quickly snatches the dragon ball from Sundowner's hands, seemingly without any effort or difficulty. The robot seems to look down on the opposing combatant, and it is evident that he possesses incredible skills in combat. After a swift defeat, Sundowner is downed with a single hit, and Daniel then glances at Jacob and Pola before he flies away, disappearing out of their sight.

Pola seems to be shaken up by what she has just witnessed, the swift defeat of Sundowner at the hands of the robot. Jacob, however, seems to have a different reaction. Rather than being terrified, he appears to be excited by the event, his young monkey brain not fully understanding the magnitude of what has just occurred.

In the commotion that occurred, Pola manages to spot a strange device on the furniture that catches her attention. She quickly decides to steal the device, snatching it and hiding it before anyone else notices.

Now that they have retrieved the device and managed to make their way out of the building, Jacob and Pola leave the premises of the tower. They look around for a safe place, as they know that their quest to retrieve the dragon balls isn't over yet. They must find somewhere where they will be safe and secure, ideally a place where neither Daniel or any other potential enemies would find them.

Pola examines the device that she had taken from the building, and discovers that it is the Dragon Ball Radar. This is a tool that can be used to help find the rest of the dragon balls, which are spread out across the earth. The two of them find a safe shack to take refuge in, and settle down for the time being while they prepare to continue their quest.
